

TEACHING AMERICAN HISTORY PROJECT

Stafford's Support during the Revolutionary War 1775-1783 From Maureen Festi

Grade – 5

Length of class period: One to two 45-60 minute class periods or each document can be presented and the time line built while studying the events of the Revolutionary War

Inquiry: How did the people in small rural towns contribute to and support the Americans during the Revolutionary War?

Objectives:

1. Students will analyze primary source documents of Stafford town meetings and the town's decisions to support the people directly and indirectly involved in the Revolutionary War.
2. Students will create and analyze a timeline with the dates of the town meetings and the decisions made to: enlist soldiers and meet quotas; offer bounty to the soldiers; pay the soldiers; procure supplies for the soldiers; support the families of soldiers; raise taxes; and divide the town into classes.

Materials:

1. Primary Document: Meeting for Legal Voters of the Town of Stafford, CT March 25, 1777. Courtesy of Connecticut Historical Society, Manuscript Collections
2. Documents from the Stafford town meetings found in the Stafford Town Records.
3. Graphic Organizer for information found in the documents of the town meetings
4. Timeline of dates of meetings with corresponding decisions written on notecards.
5. Timeline of major events during the Revolutionary War
<http://www.socialstudiesforkids.com/articles/ushistory/revolutionarywartimeline.htm>

Activities:

1. Share the Notice of Meeting for March 25, 1777. Discuss: Why did the town need to raise a quota of men? What could the town do to encourage men to enlist in the Continental Army? Why would the town need to take care of the soldiers' families?
2. Make a list of possible things that the town could do to help during the American Revolution. This list can be added to as groups share their findings from the town meeting documents.

3. Distribute packets of the documents of the town meetings to the students. Divide the documents among small groups or pairs of students according to the dates. Have the students complete the graphic organizer. Their information can then be rewritten on color-coded cards or white cards with color-coded markers i.e. blue for supporting families, green for raising taxes, etc.
4. Create a timeline for the dates of the various meetings and have students place their cards in the appropriate places below the dates on the timeline. Information from corresponding events during the Revolutionary War can be placed above the time line.
5. Analyze the time line and infer patterns and connections between the decisions of the town meetings and the events of the Revolutionary War.

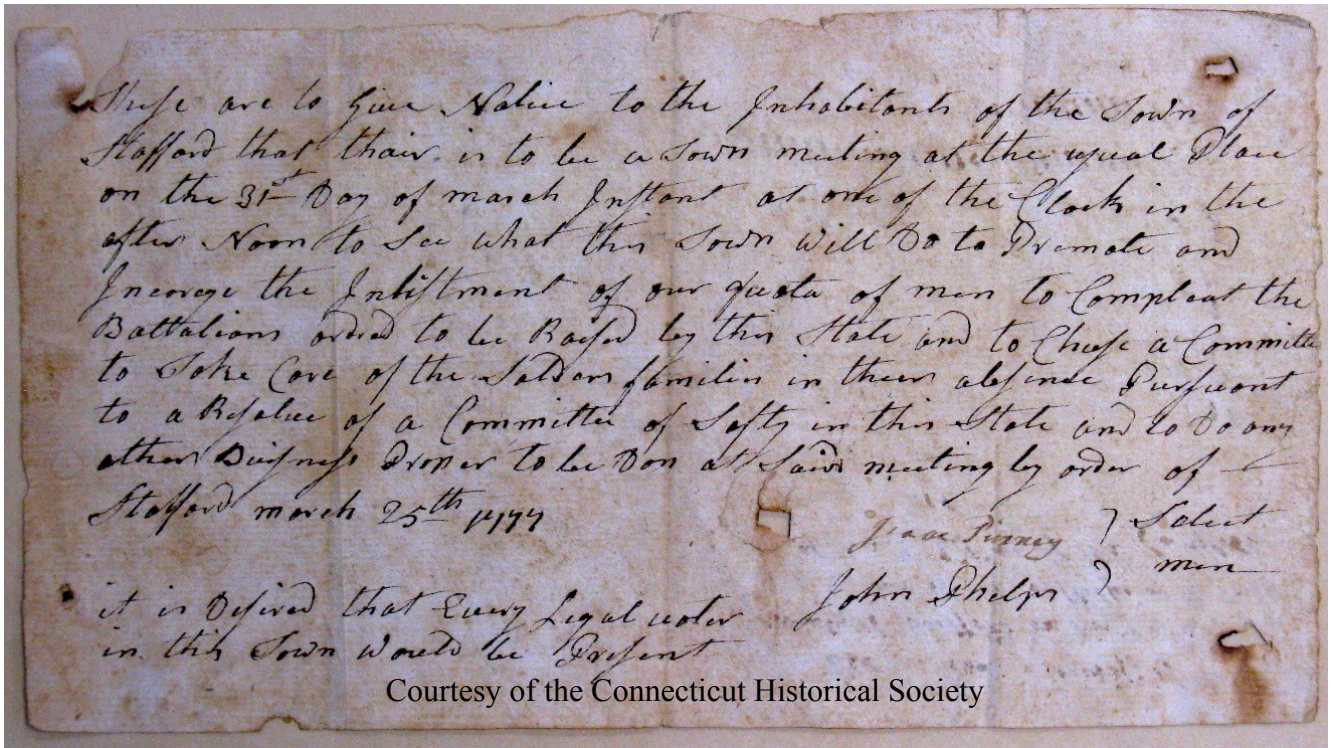

Assessment:

1. Participation in the activities and discussions
2. Written response: Choose one category that appears throughout the timeline and use details from that category to provide evidence of Stafford's support during the Revolutionary War.

Connecticut Framework Performance Standards:

1. Locate and gather information from primary and secondary sources.
2. Create time-lines of significant events from a historical period.
3. Explain the connections between local, state and national events.
